

DISCLAIMER

The information provided in the handouts is designed to provide general information to consumers of legal services. The information given here is not legal advice and may or may not be relevant to your legal matter. You are encouraged to contact an attorney of your choice to obtain definitive information on your specific legal matter. The submission of e-mail questions, request for fact sheets, requests for fee schedules, requests for educational articles, telephone consultation or in office consultation does not create any obligation on your part to retain Kate Willmore as your attorney nor does it create any obligation on the part of Kate Willmore to represent your legal interests. An attorney-client relationship is not created through the process of information sharing or the educational materials freely provided. Before Kate Willmore can represent you, she will spend time with you reviewing and analyzing all of the circumstances surrounding your legal matter.
